

Facial Hair Removal Methods

Procedure	Description
Dermaplaning	A type of physical exfoliation that involves the use of a very sharp blade to remove the top layer(s) of the skin. In doing so, it also removes hair. Goes deeper than shaving. Performed by a spa or doctor.
Electrolysis	Process whereby an electrical current is passed through the hair root to destroy it. May require multiple treatments. Potential skin discoloration from procedure.
Laser Hair Removal	A laser beam is used for the purpose of absorbing the light into the hair follicle. This then destroys the hair. Effective for terminal hair (not vellus). Requires multiple sessions for permanent hair loss although not guaranteed.
